Crème de la Mer

Crème de la Mer or 'that miracle cream' as some would rather call it, is once again offering a Christmas special of their 500ml Deluxe Edition jar. Created more than three decades ago by NASA scientist Max Huber, Crème de la Mer now has a steadfast following of devotees who insist it has produced miraculous improvements to their skin. Huber's secret formula is the culmination of 12 years of experimentation. The horrific chemical burns he received on his face (from an experiment gone-wrong) were the reason behind his skincare obsession - an obsession centred on sea kelp and natural vitamins and minerals. His breakthrough bio-fermentation process preserves and strengthens the integrity of the organic ingredients and is the reason each batch takes around four months to produce. His technology is unparalleled to anything else in the industry, and each jar is still hand-filled to keep his formula from being altered.

This cream really is fabulous, leaving the skin feeling rehydrated and amazingly smooth. Retailing at $215 (30ml) a little goes a long way, and it really is worth a try. Crème de la Mer and other products in the range (including the new triple-concentrate eye balm) are available from David Jones stores nationally.
